LATROBE HIGH SCHOOL LATROBE

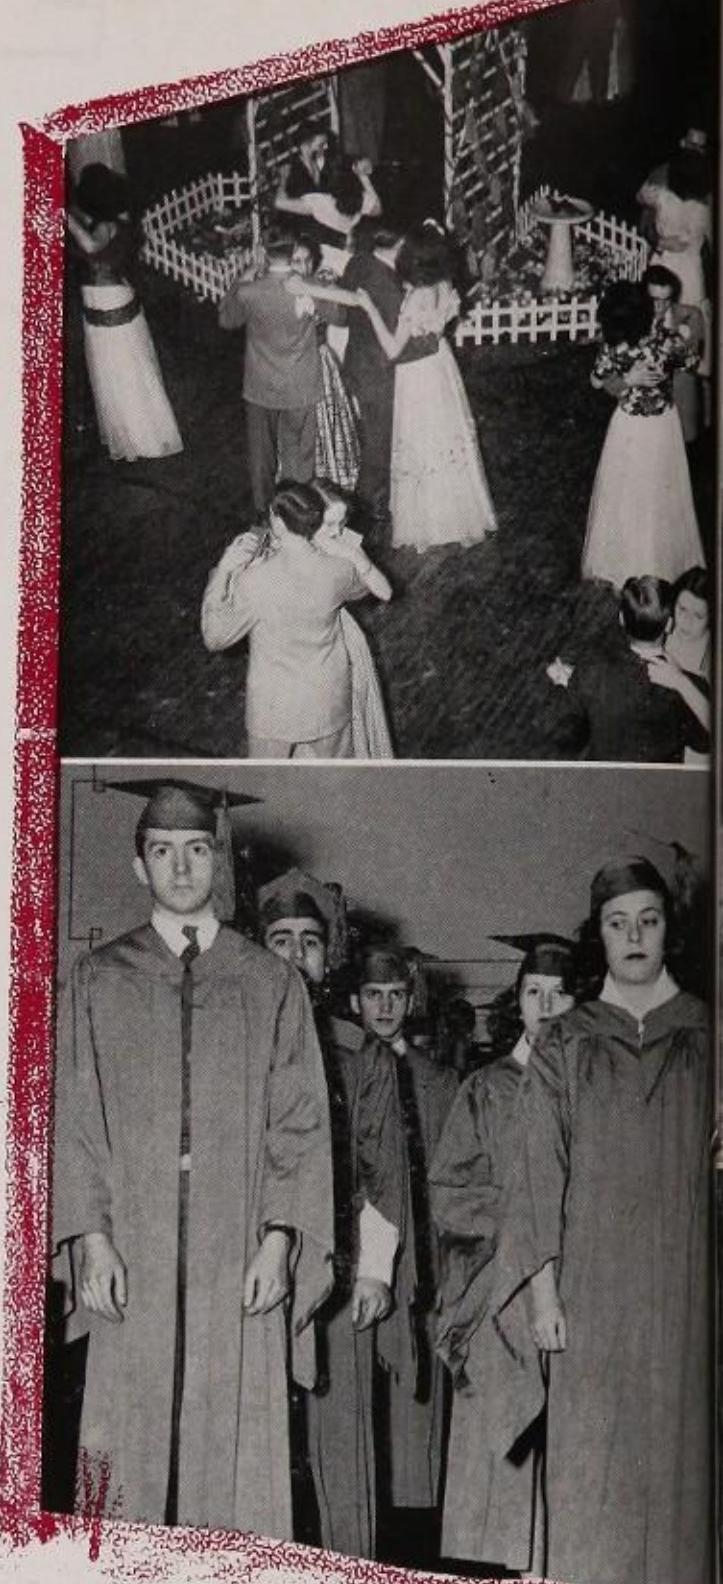

1947
PENNSYLVANIA

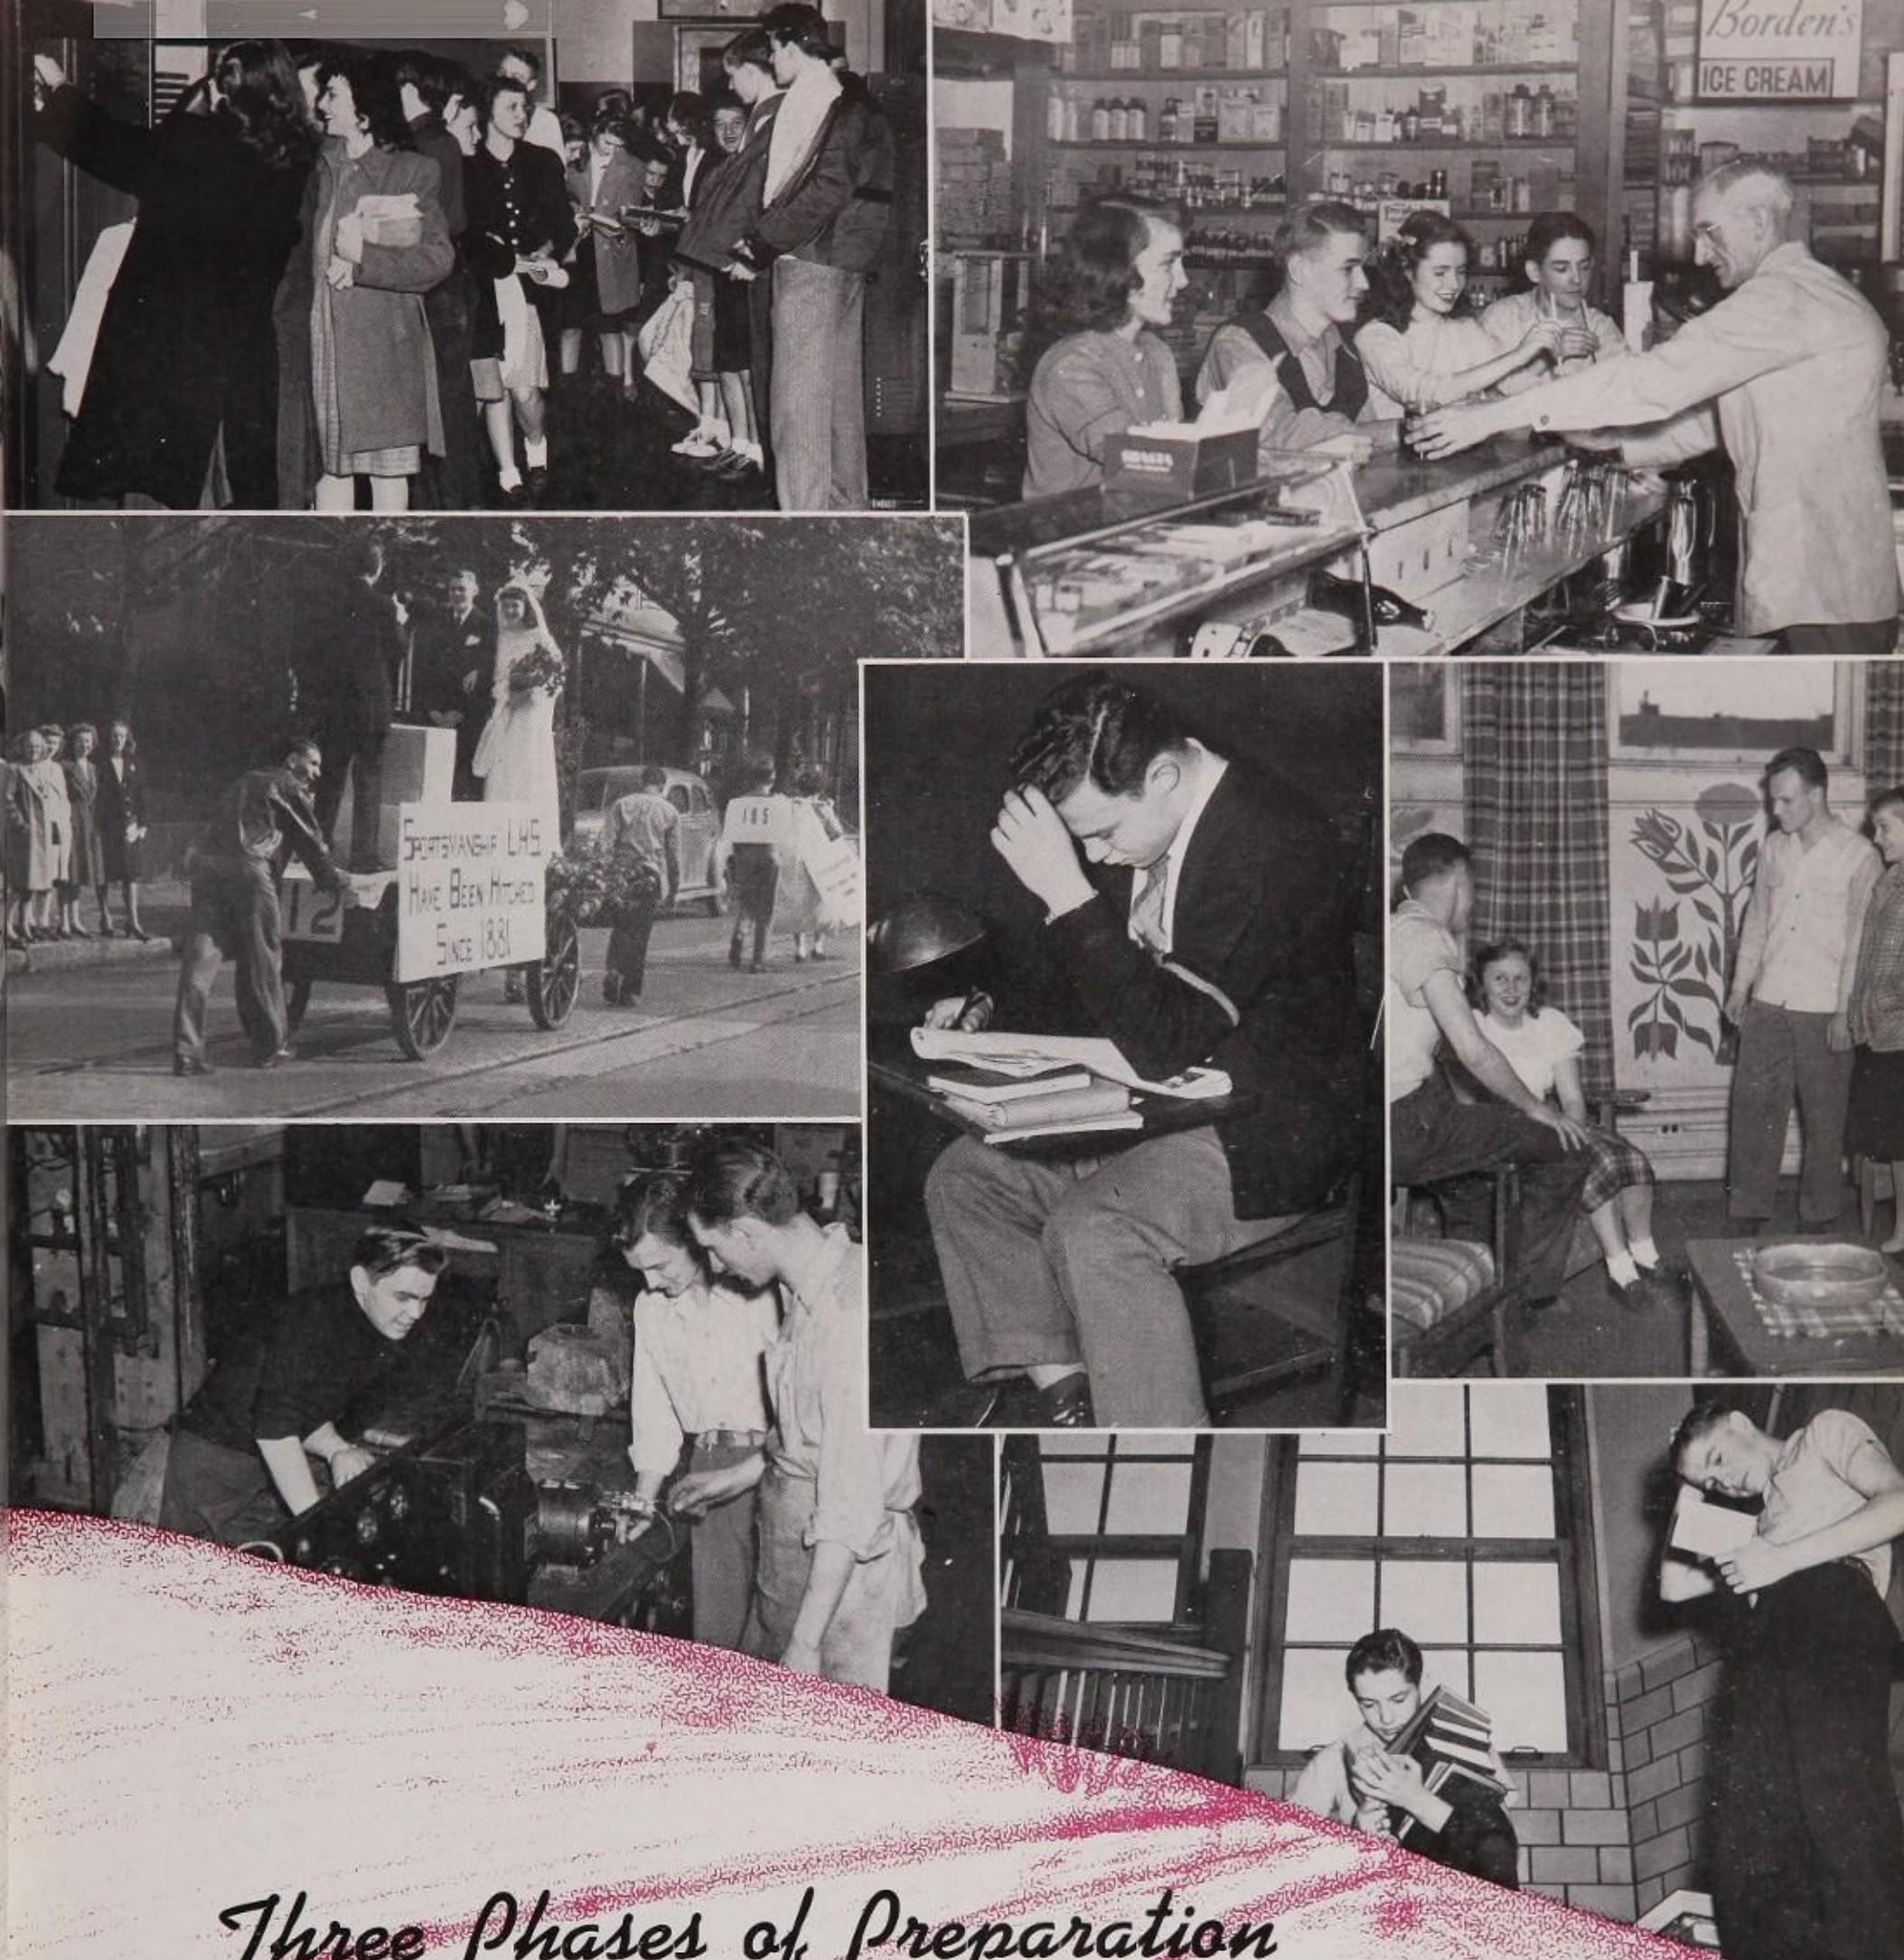

OUR STUDENTS OF TODAY

Leaders of Tomorrow

The Latrobean portrays the story of one short year of your life—a year begun with freshmen misgivings— a year left behind with senior reluctance. Your days were filled with new tasks and experiences; evenings punctuated with dances, plays and basketball games. Day and night everyone worked together for a mutual purpose—to produce good citizens. You realized that today's students are tomorrow's citizens and made preparations to serve your community in later life. Through the high school's education system you developed strong minds and bodies, discovered special talents, and paved the way to becoming All-American citizens.

ADMINISTRATION

Clear thinking and sound practice build the foundation.

Miss Ruth Himler, secretary to the Board of Education, adds finishing touches to student records.

Few will deny that the school is the center of the community, for it is the education system that trains boys and girls for their job as citizens of tomorrow, that helps form their opinions and mold their lives for 12 years.

Just as the school is the center of the community, the administration is the center about which the school system revolves. The members of the school board give unstintingly of their time and abilities to plan improvements, to introduce new teaching methods and to maintain high scholastic standards.

Mr. M. N. Funk, principal, inspects the fourth quarter honor roll.

BOARD OF EDUCATION

At their regular monthly meeting members of the school board discuss current scholastic problems: Mrs. Ruth B. Robb, Mr. William McCullough, Dr. S. W. Nealon, Mr. H. A. Stewart, Mr. George F. Brown, Mr. Martin G. Skavish, and Dr. Thomas St. Clair.

for a progressive school

Six men and one woman make up this board. Mrs. Ruth B. Robb, Mr. H. A. Stewart, Dr. S. W. Nealon and Mr. George Brown serve in this group. Mr. William McCullough, Dr. Thomas St. Clair and Mr. Martin G. Skavish complete the organization.

Mr. John G. Hulton, superintendent of schools, is the link between the board and the faculty and students. He co-ordinates the plans of the board and the achievements of the schools to maintain a well-operated and efficient school system.

To high school students, Mr. M. N. Funk, principal, needs no introduction. He is always ready to help with any problem, whether it's a schedule, college plans or references for a job. Although the duties and responsibilities connected with his position as principal are innumerable he always has time to listen to a student's troubles and give advice.

Secretaries are essential to the maintenance of any office. Miss Ruth Himler serves as secretary to the Board of Education and as Mr. Hulton's private secretary, while Miss Annabelle Walters assumes the clerical duties in the superintendent's office. Miss Dorothy Greubel is the secretary in the high school office. Miss Florence Breeton is in charge of all matters pertaining to attendance.

The administration realizes its civic as well as its scholastic responsibilities. The board cooperates to the fullest extent with the Latrobe Recreation Board to aid in developing the Legion-Keener Park. Night school, classes for veterans, and citizenship classes also constitute a part of the program carried on by the school system.

The school is the center of the community. It is the aim of the administration to improve the school system to such a degree that the whole community will prosper and become better as a result.

SCIENCE

Scientists grasp essential facts in

Among all his subjects the student soon discovers that the training he receives in science gives him the practical knowledge necessary to fit him to take his place in his community.

Whirling around on the top floor, freshmen slowed down long enough to be introduced to the world of science, under the direction of Mrs. Josephine Stahl and Mr. Harry Graham. Slowly they learned the secret of the molecules and the function of the pump.

Studying the relation of biology to community service, sophomores, under the guidance of Miss Virginia Daniels, built upon their science foundations. The understanding of life and nature provides a greater comprehension of the earth and its importance.

Continuing their course in the scientific field, juniors entered chemistry class, conducted by Mr. Harold Bitner. Exploits in the lab with fizzing and bubbling mixtures produced unpleasant odors and the wrong compounds, but the students learned the inside story of everyday occurrences and how to control them.

The upperclassmen then moved on to physics where they studied the laws governing all the natural processes under the supervision of Miss Catherine Netzlof.

By commencement time, the seniors hold practical scientific knowledge which they can put to work in their future lives. They can directly serve their community by understanding and controlling the scientific functions, which occur in our everyday lives.

SCIENTISTS ARE BUSY EXPERIMENTING

Biologists can discover a million wonders through a microscope . . . And physics students also wonder—"Why does the current flow from here to there?"

new spring outfit poses no problems for Homemakers

Learning how to bake a cake, make a dress, plan meals and acquire the habits of a perfect hostess comprise some of the duties of the home economics students who will take their place in the community as tomorrow's homemakers.

These girls spend four years learning the do's and don'ts of perfect house keeping under the tutelage of Mrs. E. M. Stumbaugh, Miss Emily Vosburg, and Miss Frances Henderson. When they were freshmen they entered the homemaking cottage with its modern kitchen, its polished floors, and furnished rooms. It all looked easy, but at first the cakes fell; the seams of their hand made dresses were uneven. Only through the guidance of home economics instructors were they able to bake fluffy cakes and sew even seams.

They not only learned how to sew and cook, but they also learned how to dress, to manage a home, to plan diets for convalescents, and to make friends. The future homemakers read textbooks, listened to lectures and watched their instructors until they too became adept and skillful. They studied hair styles and color combinations. They learned how to make a budget and decorate a home. They learned which foods contained vitamin A, B, and C and planned menus rich in nourishment. They learned how to cultivate friendship and took lessons in etiquette. All these factors contribute in making wise, thrifty, and successful homemakers.

The training seemed difficult but the students through experience and with unfailing interest and determination reached the goals that were set up for them to attain.

Ronald Weppelman and Mario Battaglia illustrate the use of the drill press.

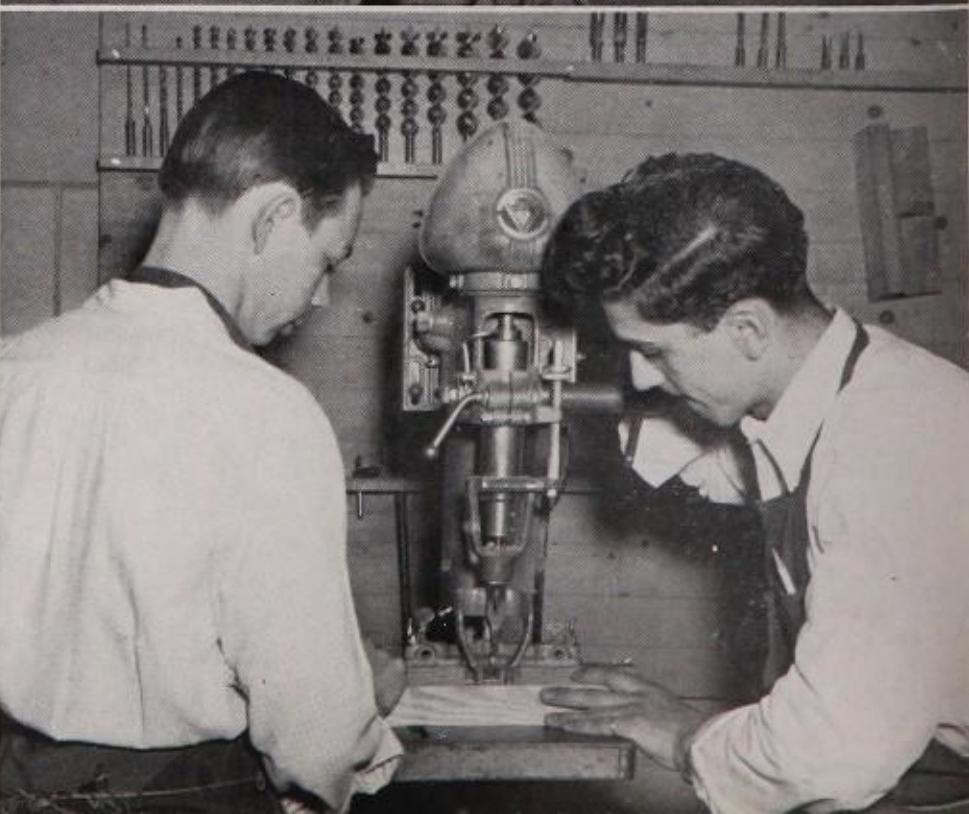

From the industrial department of Latrobe High School come the future workers for the community's industries. They are the draftsman, the machinists, carpenters and electricians of tomorrow.

In the drafting room willing hands learn how to use the T square and triangle, to make exploded views, and pencil three dimensional drawings. Students read and draw blueprints under the guiding eye of Mr. John Titus and Mr. Fred Halsall.

With the simple tools of the carpenter trade, members of the wood shop, taught by Mr. C. H. Thompson, create masterpieces in cedar, oak and mahogany. The whine of the planes gives strong testimony that the boys know how to use the power tools of woodworking.

In the electric shop a switch clicks and current flows through a circuit. A boy has proved another theory of electricity. Mr. P. J. Schwartz teaches skilled hands to rewind an armature.

Machine shop members, supervised by Mr. John Charlesworth, pour rough castings and finish them on grinders. Behind the blue and yellow flare of a torch a boy is taught to braze. Cooperation with the drafting room results in the production of dies and tools.

SOCIAL STUDIES

Young citizens discover the essence of democracy

Schools are the center of the community and here the future citizens are trained in governmental matters in social studies classes.

Freshman learn the mechanics of government in civics classes instructed by Mrs. Gladys C. Gilbert and Mr. George F. Lee. They learn not only how a government functions but also the duties of a citizen in preserving our democratic form of government.

Sophomore world history classes, taught by Miss Jean Dibb, Miss Eleanor Edwards, Mr. George F. Lee and Mr. William E. Yates, study the world of the past in order to help prevent a repetition of destructive world wars. Learning from the past makes for better citizens who take an interest in local and world-wide government.

Juniors, under Mr. George D. Rise, learn how our own country was governed in the past in the study of American history. Through knowledge of the great leaders and problems of our country, future citizens may plan for a better America in the future.

Problems of democracy classes pave the way for participation in the highest and most successful form of government ever devised. Taught by Mr. James R. Beatty and Mr. William E. Yates, seniors delve into the workings of a government such as we here in America enjoy.

As Latrobe High School fosters education, so does the physical education department build strong minds and strong bodies.

In the gym classes, Mrs. Mary Alice Graham and Mr. Creed Westfall direct exercises. Also during these classes students compete against each other in competitive sports. With Mrs. Graham as supervisor, the girls participate in field hockey, basketball, and various other body building games. In the boys classes indoor football, basketball, boxing and wrestling fill the program to get the boys into good physical condition.

During the winter months, the gym is the scene of after-school basketball encounters between classes and home rooms. Basketball tournaments between both home room and health and gym classes take place.

Also on the program for the girls is the development of poise and balance. Better carriage of the body constitutes the aims of girls physical education classes.

The annual physical and dental exams conducted by eight Latrobe physicians and all the local dentists, with the help of Mrs. Florence Young, school nurse, gave students the opportunity of taking the steps necessary to keep in perfect physical health. All seniors and athletes were x-rayed as a precaution against tuberculosis.

In health classes everyone studies anatomy and first aid measures. Here the student learns how he can take better care of himself. Discussion on the forming of good habits, communicable diseases and the function of the various parts of the body help the students.

Latrobe High School can well be proud of itself in the development of future citizens. The broad physical education program offered is open to every pupil and over 900 students participated during the year.

through exercise and instruction

Junior English students pick up a few pointers in reading and dramatic presentation during a class unit on literature.

ENGLISH

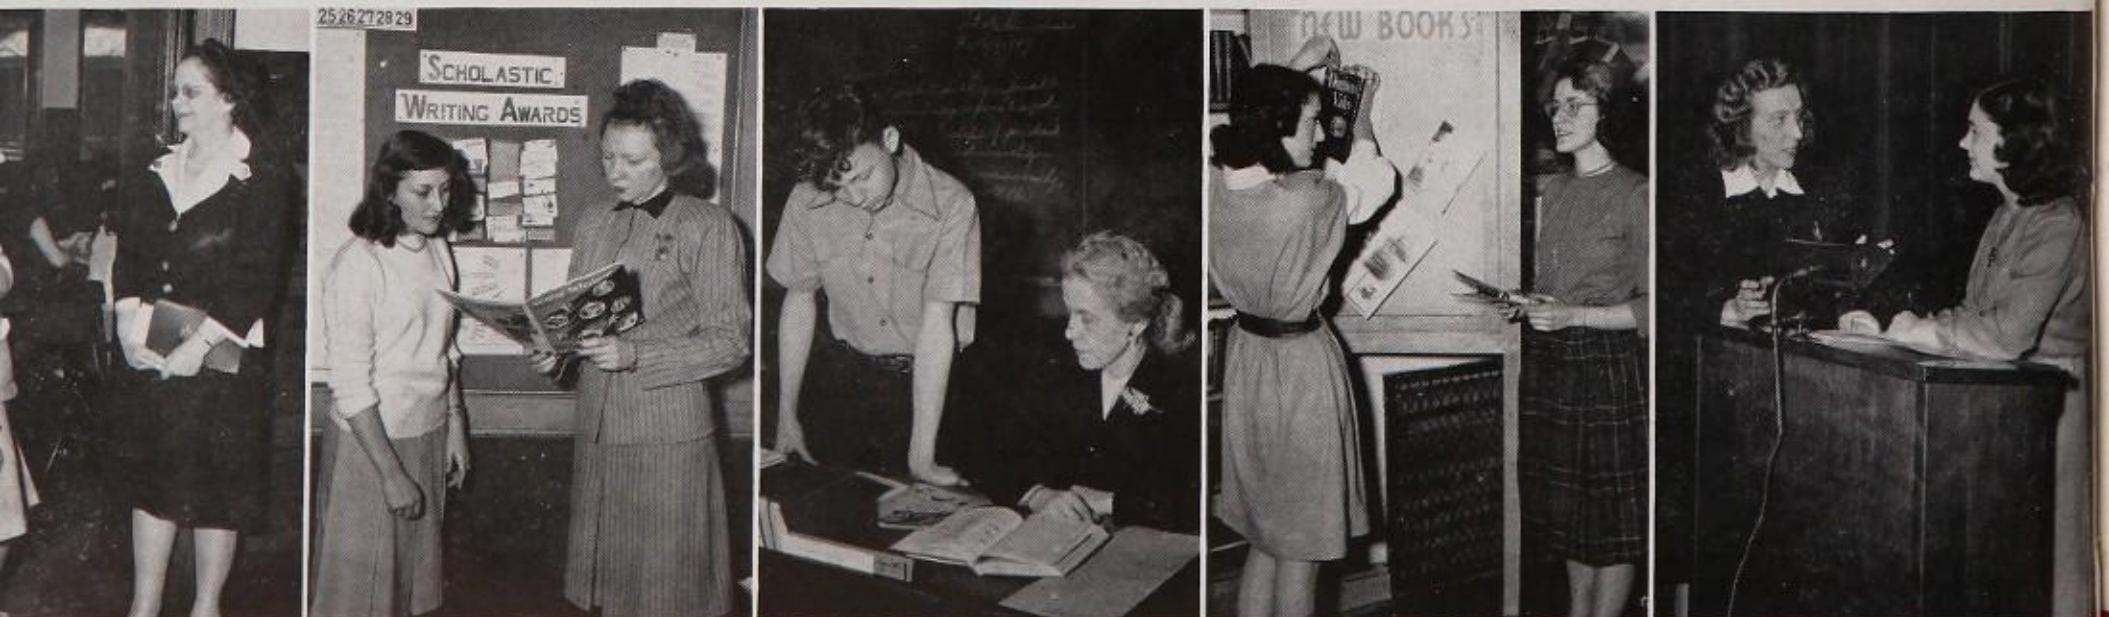

Grammar and literature expand

Training future citizens to take an active part in community life by having confidence in themselves, and knowing the proper usage of the English language dominates the aim of the English Department.

Freshmen started their four year struggle by thoroughly learning the fundamentals of grammar from Miss Jean Meason, Miss Phyllis Jones and Mr. M. E. Rizzo. Class work included oral reports every Friday, while book reports and classics loomed large in their young lives.

Memories that were hidden away in their childhood past and pictures from the family album were restored in autobiographies written by sophomores under the direction of Miss Irene Mertz. With Miss Mabel Lindner and Mr. H. D. Benford aiding them, juniors tried their skill at short story writing, to climax the study of a classic dealing with that subject.

Grammar, oral impromptu talks and the advanced study of poetry comprised part of the senior English schedule taught by Mr. Mars Dovey and Miss Martha Osborne. "America Unlimited" was enacted in assembly to further public speaking. A thorough study of board vocabulary eliminated the use of common words and made conversation more colorful. Students spent the remainder of the time in composing and delivering orations.

FINE ARTS

Linguists, artists, musicians expand cultural background

Conjugations, declensions, vocabulary and grammar are all familiar memories of language students. Introduced to them on the first day by Miss Evelyn Baxter and Miss Adeline Reeping, such foreign phrases as "Buenos dias", "Merci beaucoup" and "Nuces tibi" will be remembered forever.

Throughout the year students of the language classes read foreign newspapers and corresponded with pen pals from Italy, Spain, France, and Spanish America.

Artists recall painting self-portraits, creating designs and mastering the art of lettering taught by Miss Mary Martha Himler. Some students entered their work in the scholastic exhibit at Kaufmann's in Pittsburgh.

In January the music department under the direction of Mr. Sam Green anxiously prepared to play host to the All-County Chorus. Students made new acquaintances and the halls echoed with voices as the chorus practiced.

CULTURE'S NOT ALWAYS Highbrow

MATHEMATICS

Wizards develop mental skill through solutions of X Y Z

Explaining why a jumble of x's and y's can be arranged to obtain a correct answer is only part of the daily tasks of the math instructors in unveiling the mysteries of mathematics to future "Einsteins". These courses reach into the industrial and commercial fields and prepare the student for college entrance.

Miss Mary Louise McBride acquaints the befuddled freshmen with the mass of formulas and rules which confront them in algebra I. After much patience and repeated explanations she manages to untangle the confusion and prepare the greenies for the next math course. The survivors of algebra I advance under the instruction of Miss Lyda Hamilton in learning the "whys" and "hows" of algebra II, trigonometry, plane and solid geometry. These subjects become more involved than previous math and after three years of exploring these realms a senior graduates with a mastery which swells his pride.

The curriculum offers other math courses to industrial, commercial, and general students. Mr. R. V. Wild instructs industrial boys in the applications and usefulness of math in industry. Miss Florence Breeton teaches commercial arithmetic, acquainting her pupils with the type of problems which they will meet at their jobs. The purpose of mathematics is two fold. It makes the student alert and quick thinking while it prepares him for the type of a job he plans to enter after completing his course.

COMMERCIAL

Typing and Shorthand provide practice for the future workers

To create capable stenographers for future employment, the five commercial teachers provided their pupils with a background which will aid the community as well as themselves.

Miss Florence Gill instructs classes in shorthand I, typing I, junior business training, writing and spelling; while Mrs. Jane Ruffin teaches bookkeeping I and II. Mr. C. M. Buterbaugh instructs classes in typing I, shorthand I, consumers' education and salesmanship. Miss Blanche Quick teaches typing I, shorthand II and typing II. Mr. Harold Stover instructs classes in commercial geography, commercial law and office and clerical practice.

The odd-shaped shorthand figures and the many keys on the typewriter gradually become familiar to all commercial students. After much practice, the shorthand strokes become smooth, legible characters, and a typing student's fingers fairly dance over the keyboard. As seniors, the students learn to use the various office machines.

The Commercial Club not only stresses the importance of this field but is educational and recreational. This club, headed by Mr. Stover, faculty adviser, and Rose Ridilla, president, sponsors a Christmas party. During this year, members of the office practice class presented an assembly program on the correct and incorrect ways of interviewing, while Miss Quick's typing class presented a skit on rhythm and speed typing.

PREPARING FOR BUSINESS

Salesmanship classes provide actual problems in selling—and some of the customers are skeptical.

Typing class goes through daily drill.

Office practice students must learn to handle the machines and equipment they will find in a regular business office.

THE SENIOR CLASS

SENIOR CLASS OFFICERS

Senior class officers look to the future as Rose Ridilla, treasurer, Shirley Mitchell, secretary, Robert Mazero, vice-president and Francis McGuire, Student Council representative watch president, Robert Nair, unfurl the class flag.

We remember heavy books, wrong rooms, and confusing

"For hope shall brighten days to come,
And memory gild the past."

—Thomas Moore.

So think seniors as their last year in Alma Mater draws to a close. Before stepping into the wide world the graduates reminisce once more over the events that have occurred since the day when they first entered Latrobe High School as "greenies."

Each year they gained future voting experience by electing class officers. Rosemary Petrosky, Jane Keffer, Bayard Wright and Bob Nair filled the president's chair. Vice-presidents have included Ray Kirk, Bill Bangor, Leona Stemmler and Bob Mazero. Joan Robb, Gladys Stoup, Dorothy Petrosky and Shirley Mitchell took care of the secretary's duties, while Betty Guzick, Bob Lazarchik, Nancy George and Rose Ridilla gained the treasurer post. Dolores Pohland, Bob Mazero, Ed Palmer, and Francis McGuire served as Student Council representatives.

During their four-year stay, the seniors showed great interest in extra-curricular activities. They excelled in forensics. Peggy Good captured the sophomore prize and Alberta Chenet gained the junior award in the Kiwanis Extemporaneous Speaking Contest. In the Woman's Club Contest Rosemary Petrosky was winner of the Poetry Reading her sophomore year, and Anita Larry captured the declamation prize when a junior. Alberta Chenet, Anita Larry, Rosemary Petrosky and Peggy Good took an active part in debating with all four participating in the annual Ruth Robb Debate their junior year.

As freshmen the graduates of '47 began displaying their dramatic talents behind the footlights in the all-class play "Plane Crazy" with Peggy Good as one of the top characters. Going back to the medieval days, Bob Nair, Mike Hellenic, Jane Boore, and Bob Lazarchik had major roles in the junior class play "A Connecticut Yankee In King Arthur's Court."

The graduates also had their sportsmen. Bob Mazero, Vic Lynch, Ken Bowman and Don Smith were outstanding in football and basketball. Jim McDowell, Bill Bangor, Al Palombo, Bob Nair, Jerry Dell, and George Markovich made the going tough for opposing gridders, while Arky Svetahor and Bill Lutinner paced the hardwood.

The graduating class also has made its contribution in the music field. Jim Galimberti, Bob Lazarchik, Leona Stemmler, Grace Adolphsen, Jane Boore, Joan Robb and Donna Sarnese were members of band and orchestra. Lucetta Erney, Martha Simko and Grace Adolphsen excelled in the Girls' Chorus.

The senior class of 1947 leaves the portals of their Alma Mater with heavy hearts filled with coveted memories of their carefree high school life. But on whatever road the future takes them, they are determined to do their part towards bettering the community in which they live.

EX GI'S

Caps and gowns replace their country's uniform

The beginning of the school year saw many ex G. I.'s return to complete or further educations which had been interrupted by war.

Joe Huber and Bob Switzer entered the Navy together in June, 1943. Both were trained as firemen. Joe served 32 months sea duty on the U.S.S. Tuscaloosa, seeing action in both the Pacific and Atlantic. Bob served aboard the U.S.S. Rocky Mount, participating in the invasion of Leyte in the Philippines.

Dom Ciccarelli reported for his basic training at Camp Blanding, Florida in February, 1944. Dom went overseas in December of the same year, where he served in France and Germany until he arrived back in the states in May, 1946 and was discharged in June. He held the rank of sergeant while in the Army.

Serving in Japan, India and China, Sam Sciabica entered the Navy in April, 1944 at Bainbridge, Maryland. Sam maintains that the best thing in the Navy is getting out, and the best thing he got out of it was himself. Until his discharge in May, 1946 he was a fireman 1/c.

Jack Dempsey entered the Navy in August, 1946, just before he was to begin his last year of school. Before his discharge in August, 1946, he was stationed on the Pacific Coast.

Robert Carns left school in December, 1944 to enter the Army. While in the service he held the rank of sergeant and served in Korea, Japan and the Philippines.

Arthur Harshell visited 46 islands and cities in the Pacific War Theater during his stretch in the Navy. Entering the service in February, 1944, he served as fireman 1/c.

Tony Britt stopped school during his junior year to enter the Navy in February, 1946. He was stationed in the United States until his discharge in August of the same year.

At the age of 16, Harry Botts managed to deceive the recruiting officer and entered the Seabees in December, 1944. During his stay in the service he served in the Pacific.

Al Zito also stopped school to enter the Navy. He went to Great Lakes, Illinois, in January, 1946, where he received his boot training. He served in the Pacific until his discharge in June, 1946.

Paul Sandacz enlisted in the Army in May, 1943, and held the rank of Technical Corporal in the Medical Corps. He served in England, France, Germany, Belgium, and Austria. During his stay in Breman, Germany, he played football for the "Breman Bears."

Francis McGuire and Joe Yurick entered the Navy in June, 1945. Francis attained the rank of Storekeeper 3/c and saw action in the Pacific. Joe was a seaman 2/c and was stationed in England.

Entering the Navy in March, 1945, Tom Hendrickson was stationed at Bainbridge, Maryland as a Hospital Apprentice 3/c. He was discharged in August, 1946.

Francis Pipak entered the Navy in October, 1943, and went to school to study electricity. He served 31 months in the Pacific before his discharge in May, 1946.

UNDERCLASSMEN

The Juniors . . .

The activities of the class of 1948 centered around plans for a successful Junior-Senior Prom. With the production of the annual class play, "Gangway for Ghosts," a mystery-comedy, under the student direction of Joan Killius, with Barbara Hollingsworth and Arthur Frankel in the leading roles, they secured the necessary funds to sponsor the prom. With Miss Evelyn Baxter as faculty adviser, president Fred Khorey was assisted by fellow officers Andrew Morris, vice president, Barbara Louis, secretary, Richard Battaglia, treasurer, and James Walker, Student Council representative, in planning and directing the activities of the various committees which helped to make the prom a success. The juniors also decorated the gymnasium for the first school dance of the year and provided refreshments for the second.

The Sophomores . . .

Trying to live up to their expectations formed the major job for sophomores during the 1946-47 school year. As an excellent start, Virginia Bowman, Margaret Hazlett, and Malinda Massena gained major roles in the all-class play, "Brother Goose." Under the guidance of Miss Jean Meason, faculty adviser, sophomores chose Joseph Mosso as president, to be assisted by Robert Keefe, vice president, Ann Johnson, secretary, Gloria Pennesi, treasurer, and Robert Metz, Student Council representative. Under the chairmanship of Barbara Beatty, the sophomores issued the invitations and prepared the programs for the second school dance, "Winter Wonderland."

The Freshmen . . .

Although unaccustomed to the routine of high school life, the freshmen made a successful attempt to take an active interest in the various activities at Latrobe High School. Gaining a part in the all-class play, "Brother Goose," Geraldine Hurley earned the distinction of being the only freshman to be a member of its cast. Also focusing attention on his class was Robert Burns who received the freshman prize in the Kiwanis Extemporaneous Speaking Contest. With Miss Florence Gill as class adviser, the frosh chose Wilbur Kirk, president, Nancy Erny, vice president, Beverly Crowe, secretary, Edward Seremet, treasurer, and John Walker, Student Council representative, as class officers.

Comedies and mysteries

The houselights dim, a hush falls on the audience, and the curtains open for the performance of "Brother Goose," the first dramatic production of the year.

As the plot unfolded, onlookers laughed at Hyacinth, acted by Virginia Bowman, and her great love for football, as well as Michael Hellenic's attempts as Jeff to keep house and be an architect at the same time. The troubles stirred up by Wes and Carol, portrayed by James Cobrando and Malinda Messena respectively, kept Jeff running around in circles. The audience couldn't forget Helen Jane Lawry as Peggy, Jeff and his flock's guiding light, or Peggy Good as Lenore who had vicious plans.

Miss Virginia Daniels supervised the production aided by Charlotte Mae Spicher.

With the coming of the Yuletide season, Mr. James R. Beatty began working on the Bird's "Christmas Carol" with P. of D. class members constituting the cast and committees for the annual holiday assembly.

Under the student directing of Joan Killius, the juniors presented the mystery comedy "Gangway for Ghosts." With the action taking place one stormy night in Storm Heights, an old mansion on a high cliff, chills raced up and down the backs of the audience as weird violin music and whispers floated through the air. Colleen Eiseman as Crazy Nell and Carmen Ciocci as Peters the butler, kept everyone on the edge of his seat. Miss Virginia Daniels also directed this play.

Playing an essential role in the unseen part of the dramatic productions were John Springer, Donald Harris, Herbert Miller, Gordon Shurie, and Paul Zitterbart, the stage managers who pulled the curtain and snapped the light switches. Dorothy Petrosky headed the ushers, who served faithfully at all public affairs in the auditorium.

Student Director, Joan Killius, interprets this scene from the junior class play, "Gangway for Ghosts."

After the show is over it is a matter of straightening up for the stage managers, and veteran John Springer can relax till the next play.

- BROTHER GOOSE All Class Play
The humorous attempts of Jeff to keep house and practice architecture all at the same time certainly kept us amused.
- BIRD'S XMAS CAROL Christmas Pageant
We were drawn into the Yuletide spirit by the story of Carol and the poor Ruggles family.

- GANGWAY FOR GHOSTS Junior Play
Shivers ran up and down our spines at the weird violin music and faint whispers floating through the air at Storm Heights.
- A CASE OF SPRINGTIME Senior Play
How we laughed at the sympathetic troubles that came down on Bob when he fell in love with Joan, the daughter of the school principal!

headline counting to tell of another year's accomplishments

Passive verbs, broken decks, headlines that don't count and stories that are too short, along with numerous other things, make up the headaches and enjoyment of a student journalist whose three years of journalistic endeavor prove profitable.

As the first step, a student enters journalism I class. Here he learns the fundamentals of school publications. He struggles to get the five "w's"—who, what, when, where, why—in his first lead. He also labors over the technicalities of headline writing. After a year, he feels prepared to take his place in the High Post Staff.

From then on, his eighth periods are constantly occupied. He watches Jane Keffer, news editor, and Anita Larry, feature editor, preparing their layouts for the next issue. He then sees Stanley Porembka, sports editor, struggling over headlines. He observes Rose Ridilla, advertising manager, sending out bills to the various advertisers and he sees Patricia Syster, business manager, checking the staff's accounts.

Gradually, he learns the intricate details of page makeup, headlines, leads and passive verbs and he is ready to take his place as an editor or manager. When he has written 300 published inches of material and is in the upper third of his class scholastically, he gains admittance to the Quill and Scroll. This organization follows the principles of truth, loyalty, friendship, leadership, enlightenment, opportunity and initiative. Thus the senior carries with him a memory of journalistic work which will never fade.

Speakers express views on present day problems

The forensic department touched current problems this year—from the orators speaking on all types of post-war problems, to the debaters discussing state medicine; from the extemporaneous speakers pointing out the labor problems existing today, to the patriotic declamations of our founding fathers.

From a group of 26 seniors, eight contestants survived the eliminations to compete in the 22nd annual oratorical contest sponsored by the Rotary Club. Discussing racial tolerance, Grace Adolphsen emerged as first place winner. Robert Lazarchik took second place honors with "Are We Aught Enriched?" in which he traced our scientific development. Third prize went to Rosemary Petrosky who chose peace as her topic in "Bitter Fruit". Honorable mention went to Alberta Chenet for her discussion of the duties of the citizens of Latrobe in "We Too Must Serve". Other finalists, Kenneth Bowman, Peggy Good, Anita Larry, and Jane Boore chose subjects dealing with labor, duties of citizens, and music appreciation.

With the orations completed, forensic aspirants from all classes turned their attention to the Kiwanis Extemporaneous Contest and spent hours combing library shelves for information dealing with "Labor in the American Economic System". Freshman Robert Burns came out victorious for his class. Mary Ellen Berneski and Ned Nakles, sophomores, explained their opinions on "Is There a Further Need for Labor Legislation?" Ned was chosen as class winner. Contestants Lois Jean Cease and Louis Steiner presented their view points on "Is the Closed Shop Democratic?" with Lois Jean emerging victorious. Eleanor Rock and Bayard Wright discussed the part of organized labor in obtaining industrial peace, and Eleanor was victorious. Judges selected Ned Nakles' presentation as the best of the evening.

The third outstanding forensic program of the year was the poetry, declamation and Shakespearean reading contest sponsored by the Latrobe Women's Club. With both girls offering the required poem, "A Thing of Beauty" by John Keats, as well as their own selection, Clara Tovo and Joan Kostley competed in the poetry reading contest. Clara won through her interpretation of Stephen Lanier's "Song of the Chattahoochie." Anita Larry's rendition of Laurette Taylor's "America for Americans," and Barrie Moberg's account of Patrick Henry's "Give Me Liberty or Give Me Death," comprised the declamations, with Barrie emerging victorious. In the Shakespearean reading contest, Rose Marie Mania read her lines from "As You Like It" to cop winning honors, while Peggy Good portrayed Lady Macbeth in "Macbeth."

As a climax to the season, debaters participated in the annual Ruth Robb Debate, sponsored by the Latrobe Civic Club. Ned Nakles and Richard Pohland composed the affirmative team, debating Resolved: That the Federal government should provide complete medical care available to all citizens at public expense. The decision of the judges went to the negative team, consisting of Peggy Good and Lou Steiner. With the completion of this debate, the 1947 forensic schedule came to a close.

MUSIC

We listen to our busy music makers sing and play

By providing music at every assembly and presenting various special programs throughout the year, the Latrobe High School music department represented an active part of the school activities during the year.

With the presentation of the Westmoreland County Choral Concert in the high school auditorium in January, Latrobe's musicians claimed a new distinction. Several members of the school choruses represented Latrobe in the program. These students were Zane Hauser, William French, Gordon Shurie, Berkey Shirey, Dolores Quitko, Lucetta Erney, Virginia Bossart, Martha Simko, Barbara Johnson, Grace Adolph-sen, Nancy Gettemy, Robert McCurdy, John Wellen, William Walters, Donald Luttner, James Galimberti, and Paul Cmar. Preceding this presentation, several of the members of the music department had participated in the District Chorus. In February Grace Adolphsen and William French were local participants in State Chorus at State College.

Representing Latrobe in the District Band at Donora were James Galimberti, Robert Lazarchik, Leona Stemmler, and Donald Wright. Following this musical program, Robert Lazarchik and Donald Wright participated in State Band at Lebanon.

STUDENT COUNCIL OFFICERS

Polishing off the trophy cases provides a job for Student Council officers, Eleanor Rock, Nancy George, Mike Hellenic and Phyllis Johnson.

STUDENT COUNCIL

Group promotes activities with dances and assemblies

With service to student and to school as the main interest, the governing body of Latrobe High School, the Student Council, organized in 1920, rendered improvements in the forms of material and personal services.

At the first meeting of the year, this group, headed by Mr. J. R. Beatty, faculty adviser, elected officers to serve throughout the term. They chose Michael Hellenic, senior, to direct their activities with Nancy George, senior, assisting him as vice-president. Phyllis Johnson, junior, and Eleanor Rock, senior, filled the posts of secretary and treasurer respectively.

During the year, Council sponsored various activities. Members of this organization presided at the three major dances of the year, "Teen-Ager's Stag," "Winter Wonderland," and "Spring Fever." They presented several special assemblies throughout the year. As a main feature of regular assemblies, several March of Time movies were shown. The Council sold refreshments at basketball and football games.

This organization made several contributions to the school. The recordio, a record player and voice recorder, was one of their gifts. The trophy cases and lectern, gifts of the Council for the last three years, arrived during the term. This group also purchased two paintings, "Charge" by Virgil Cantini and "Winter" by Mrs. Pauline Byers, to add to the school's permanent collection.

SCHOOL ORGANIZATIONS

Officers and committees make club plans for the year

This year as always, clubs and organizations promoted extra-curricular activities, helped the student make new friends and stimulated cooperation.

Language students gained new knowledge of the customs of countries whose languages they were studying and put it to use in the meetings of their clubs. The Junior Classical League held its Roman Banquet observing all the traditions of the ancient Romans. Members of the French and Spanish Clubs learned more of these languages because of informal use in conversations.

A new organization, the Junior Historians, was formed for students to gain more knowledge of the history and government of America. The Commercial Club promoted practical and everyday usage of commercial work in business careers. Camera Club members learned new techniques for taking and developing pictures.

Future chemists and scientists practiced their theories at club meetings. The Chemistry Club was formed this year after having been discontinued. Science Club members further discussed their knowledge of the earth and other planets.

Members of the Safety Patrol and health room attendants served the school and gained new knowledge valuable for future use.

Broadcasters

With their motto "To Inform and Not To Entertain", the broadcasting class completed another year of bi-weekly newcasts. Each Monday and Thursday during the home room period the broadcasters reported the latest news gathered from all the corners of Latrobe High School.

Members of the staff included Anita Larry as news editor, Alberta Chenet as script editor, and Harry Murray as the sports chief. Shirley Eversole assumed the duties of production manager. Besides the news, short skits were presented in advertisement of school events that occurred throughout the year.

Not limiting their activities to the five-minute broadcasts, the class members also furnished some school entertainment. During the Christmas season they presented a solemn play entitled "Oh, Little Town of Bethlehem" to the student body. This year brought to the broadcasters their first chance to speak over a large network, when they broadcast their Christmas play to the public over Station WHJB in Greensburg.

BROADCASTING CLASS

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

National Honor Society

"I believe in the joy of study, the delight of acquaintance with books, the discipline of diligent learning, and the rediscovery of the world of nature and men through an open mind," echoed new candidates for admission into the National Honor Society as the president read the oath. They realized that these words not only expressed their own personal satisfaction but also formed the basis for achievement in the society in which they live. They know that they had attained this honor by excelling in the qualities of leadership, scholarship, character, and service, the four cardinal principles of the society.

Eleven seniors carried out the society's aims this year. Under the supervision of Mr. James R. Beatty, they elected officers at their first meeting, selecting Ken Bowman as president and Bob Mazero as vice president. Serving the society as secretary was Lucetta Erny, while Jane Boore represented them on Student Council. Vic Lynch took care of the financial duties, and Peggy Good filled the position of High Post Reporter. Other members included Rosemary Petrosky, Bob Lazarchik, Alberta Chenet, Ray Kirk, and Clara Tovo. Since members of this organization participate in numerous activities, there are no regularly scheduled meetings and duties.

An upperclassman must be in the upper fourth of his class, scholastically, before he is considered for membership in the society. The faculty then chooses students according to the society's four basic principles. Juniors, elected as members one year, serve as the officers and conduct the initiation ceremony the following year.

At the conclusion of another school year, the Latrobe High School National Honor Society realizes its value in creating ambition among the students as it observes the list of new members who will continue to hold out its goal for the individual who develops the qualities of scholarship, leadership, character, and service.

see our gridiron warriors conquer opponents on striped turf

With eight lettermen in the lineup, the gridiron forces of Coach R. V. Wild began a successful campaign capturing the first of their six wins of the season from Penn High, 12-7, in the first opening game played away from home in twenty years.

Hurst suffered a 26-6 reverse, the worst they have ever taken at Latrobe's hands. Outside of a pass interception the Hurricane never threatened. At Donora, Latrobe was held to a deadlock with the defending WPIAL champions. After scoring in the third period, the Wildcats rallied in the closing minutes only to have their drive fall short.

Westmoreland County Champions, the Jeannette Jayhawks, handed the Cats the first setback of the season, 13-7. Latrobe's score represented a 31-yard aerial from Mazero to Smith. Inability to stop the Lion air attack on a rain soaked field cost Latrobe a 13-0 loss, when Altoona surprised the Wildmen by passing with the slippery pigskin.

Regaining their stride, the Cats dropped North Huntingdon 21-6 and Greensburg 26-0. Pass interceptions led to the worst downfall the County Seaters have suffered at the hands of Latrobe since 1911. Under the lights at Wilkinsburg, the Holy City team was defeated 26-6, with Latrobe scoring at will. Climaxing the season with a 27-0 victory over Derry Twp., Latrobe clipped the Eagle's wings on a muddy field.

Season's Highlights

No Jinx . . . Don Smith, wearing jersey No. 13 on Friday, September 13, scored the first touchdown of the year by snagging a pass against Penn.

Once Again . . . Against North Huntingdon, Bob Mazero duplicated an 81 yard touchdown run of the previous year. Starting on the same side of the field from the same play in the same quarter as the previous game, he outdistanced the whole defensive team.

Sweet Memory . . . Five pass interceptions highlighted the 26-0 Greensburg defeat, the worst Latrobe has handed the County Seaters since the beginning of grid relations.

"One Inch" . . . Vic "One Inch" Lynch received his nickname from a Pittsburgh sports scribe during the Wilkinsburg game. Several times the Cats needed inches for a first down and Vic sneaked the ball through for the coveted ground.

Novelty . . . When the Wildcats played Penn under the lights it was the first time that a Latrobe team had played a night game.

Proud . . . Seniors of this year never have been beaten by a Derry Twp. grid team.

GREETINGS EXCHANGED

SECOND ROW: Wilt, Bowman, Carnahan, Bangor, Khorey, Paul.

BASKETBALL

Basketeers give thrills plus during hardwood campaign

Advancing to the final game of the County Tournament, Coach R. V. Wild's varsity cagers climaxed their season with a record of nine wins against 12 setbacks.

The Wildcat basketeers made a strong start but had difficulty in overcoming their lack of height. They finished the Section X race behind Greensburg and Jeannette in a tie for third place with Scottdale.

"Arky" Svetahor highlighted the season's play with his consistent basket making. On the defense Bob Mazero and Don Smith kept the opposition's baskets to a minimum.

The Jeannette encounter on the home court was the thriller of the season. After doggedly trailing the Jayhawks, the Wildmen came through to edge the visitors by a 31-29 count.

After hurdling North Huntingdon and Derry Twp., the Latrobe quintet bowed to a powerful Greensburg five in the county title playoff. Vic Lynch rated a post on the mythical All-County team for his outstanding playing in the tournament.

The Jayvee cagers of Coach C. S. Westfall turned in one of the best records in many years with 15 victories against three losses. The Jr. WPIAL five composed of freshmen was less fortunate, winning only 4 out of 10 battles.

FIRST ROW: Weber, Hensler, Fenton, Good Callahan, Lynch.

SECOND ROW: Workman, Keefe, Harkness, Caruso, Veto.

pating in athletic competition

About the time people went around humming "April Showers", minor sport athletes of Latrobe High School began working kinks out of their muscles in preparation for this year's battles.

Arnie Palmer set a mark for future Latrobe High School linksmen as he captured the WPIAL golf crown and then journeyed to Penn State to win the state championship for the second straight year. Palmer set two new records, one by being the only boy ever to win the double crown twice, and the other by shooting the lowest score ever fired in the PIAA championship playoff. Palmer gained national recognition last summer when he qualified for the National Junior Open at Pittsburgh. He traveled to Detroit and fought his way to the final match, only to lose to Mac Hunter of California. Arnie is rated the number two junior golfer of the nation.

Coach George D. Rise's tennis players captured the Westmoreland County title and Section II honors for the third straight season with an undefeated record. The racquet wielders scored four shutouts and dropped only one point in registering their five victories. The netters represented Section II in the WPIAL Championship tourney.

After making a slow early season start Coach C. S. Westfall's thinclad squad came back to win the Westmoreland County track championship for the first time in four years. Several boys qualified for the WPIAL championship meet, but the cindermen won only two third places, Johnny Hauser in the mile, and Vic Lynch in the pole vault.

In 1946 Jim Stumbaugh set a new county high jump record of 6' 3" to lead the Latrobe harriers. Jim took top place in the WPIAL meet earning him a chance to compete in the State meet. At the meet at State Jim came in third. This event ended his high school track career.

Repeating in the first place spot in the Indian club event at the WPIAL meet in Pittsburgh, Ray Kirk led the gymnastic squad to fourth place in the meet. Clair Spahn and Anthony Crouse placed fourth and fifth in the same event to finish the scoring for Latrobe.

Led by Arnie Palmer, the golf squad coached by Mr. William Yates repeated as section champions for the fourth consecutive year. At the end of the regular season Latrobe tied with Greensburg for the first place, but won the rubber match for the crown. The linksmen then went on to the WPIAL tournament only to lose in the semi-finals against Baldwin High School.

PING PONG CONTESTANTS

Harry Murray tells fellow players how he copped the school championship in the annual ping pong tournament. Contestants included: FIRST ROW: Lavin, Dandoy, D. Fenton, Hedfors, W. Reeping, Ferguson. SECOND ROW: Robb, Hvizzdoss, Wellen, McDowell, Bridge, D. Reeping.

GIRLS' HOCKEY CHAMPS

FIRST ROW: O'Barto, Hostovich, Syster.
SECOND ROW: Czech, Kohuth, Jackson,
Upholster, Greenawalt, Kutzer.
THIRD ROW: Erb, Slix, Johnson, Kasunic,
Stephen, Verneau, Hricik.

Hockey, basketball and ping pong comprised the intra-mural sports schedule for approximately 500 students interested in participating in extra-curricular sports.

Hockey opened the intra-mural program. Led by Betty Zabkar, girls of gym period VI captured the school hockey championship.

For the first time in four years the freshman girls won the class basketball crown. Barbara Johnstin and Ann Workman took scoring honors for the winners. In the boys' division senior health class Tuesday IV copped the toga by downing the sophomores in the playoff.

Rivalry in the home room tournament was hot and heavy in both the boys' and girls' divisions. Room 102 copped the boys' title by downing the sophomores 20-18. Ken Bowman and Harry Carnahan were high for the winners. Elinor Jackson led 215 to a 20-5 verdict over 104 to win the girls' home room pennant.

Ping pong drew an entry list of 28 boys from all classes. Harry Murray, senior and last year's runner-up, garnered the championship by downing sophomore Jay Lavin, underclass champ, in the final match for the title by a 3-1 count.

We Couldn't Do It All . . .

Naturally we needed some help. So Mr. Donald Young, of the Pontiac Engraving Company, had to help us organize and layout the book. Darwin and Henry Deglau had to snap the formal and informal pictures. Amateur photographers, Nancy Erny, James Thayer, John Patterson, James Cobrando, Joe Mosso and Arthur Frankel, helped click the candid shots. And finally, Mr. W. C. Johnston and the Latrobe Bulletin Job Printing Department printed our yearbook. Everyone had to help, and we sincerely thank everyone who did.

FROM LATROBE To The World . . .

Latrobe people get around! Many a boy or girl from Latrobe carried the good name of our town to the far places of the earth, during the war; youngsters in colleges, men on business throughout the country are proud to say "My hometown is Latrobe, Pennsylvania!"

The products manufactured in Latrobe are travelers, too. Our own Tool Steels, for example, go around the world to make friends by making things better.

These First Quality Steels are produced by Latrobe craftsmen. They are made with the skill, integrity and loyalty to sound ideals that spring from the Latrobe environment, where home, family, education and civic welfare are solid foundations of the community.

To you of the Class of '47 go our best wishes for fortune in your journeyings . . . for contentment and prosperity. May you "make things better", in the Latrobe tradition, at home and on the job!
